

Build and Broaden: Conference on Social Connections to Promote Individual and Community Resilience in Post-COVID-19 Society

SUPPORTED BY NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION #2037433

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT ARLINGTON

PRESENTATIONS

Topic: Cultivating COVID-19 Resiliency among Food Production Workers.

DR. NORA HERNANDEZ

Assistant Professor in the School of Social Work, The University of Texas at Arlington.

DR. JOSIAH HEYMAN

Professor of Anthropology, Director of the Center for Inter-American and Border Studies at the University of Texas at El Paso

DR. ANABEL CANCHOLA

Program and Contract Administrator at Doña Ana County, Health and Human Services Department in Las Cruces, New Mexico

Topic: Weaker Ties in the Social World and During COVID?

DR. KAREN FINGERMAN

Director of the Texas Aging & Longevity Center, Director of Research UT Center on Aging & Population Sciences, Professor of Human Development & Family Sciences at UT Austin

Topic: Maternal Stress and Resilience during the COVID-19 Pandemic: Findings from a Mixed-Method Study.

DR. SALTANAT CHILDRESS

Assistant Professor in the School of Social Work, The University of Texas at Arlington.

VIRTUAL
SESSION - 2
SEP 17TH, 2PM-4PM
(CST)

REGISTER
FREE

RSVP HERE

For more info, please visit our website: <https://socialconnectionsconference.uta.edu>